Corporate Law

The Corporate Practice Group provides counseling and representation on a wide spectrum of business concerns, mergers, acquisitions, purchases and sales of stock and assets.

We represent diverse corporate clients, including commercial and investment banks, mutual funds, real estate owners and developers, hotel owners and operators, technology and telecommunications companies, health care facilities and biotechnology companies, advertising and media concerns, manufacturing corporations and retailers.

Corporate Practice Group attorneys play an integral role in structuring, negotiating and implementing a variety of business transactions and combinations involving both public and private institutions. Our corporate attorneys also are experienced in representing not-for-profit, tax-exempt organizations, including medical, religious, educational and cultural institutions and public and private foundations. The Group effectively mobilizes our Firm's skills across a range of relevant disciplines - Litigation, Real Estate, Health, Commercial Finance, Tax and ERISA - to meet our clients' particular needs.

Beyond counseling clients with respect to specific legal matters, our business-oriented legal advice often helps clients evaluate opportunities and meet their business objectives in an increasingly complex legal and business environment.
